ARTS DFW

About Us

Arts DFW a 501 (C) 3 non-profit. Our council's board is packed with stakeholders in our local communities and the Arts. We know the needs. We help fundraise, so Visual and Performing Arts organizations can focus on what they do best: creativity.

The Arts have been shown to revitalize and bring communities together, boost academic performance in students, provide health benefits to local residents, reduce crime, as well as impact our local economy and work force while simultaneously preparing us for the future.

Mission Statement

Arts DFW a 501(c) 3 will support artists by working in partnership with corporations and other non-profit organization. Arts DFW will fund local art groups and their activities to promote, educate and support the Arts.

How the Arts Benefit Communities

The Visual and Performing Arts bring a wide range of benefits into our communities. The Arts can revitalize communities, as well as, encourage social communication, interaction, cooperation and tolerance across a diversely varied population. High arts engagement among students can boost academic performance, increase their chances for success after school, and make them more likely to be actively engaged with their communities through voting and volunteerism. The Arts are a major force driving the economy and the workforce into our future. Access to the Arts (via both creating, or attending) translates into health benefits for the community, with reduced rates in obesity, and other major benefits that impact quality of life for the older residents ranging from better mobility, lower rates of hypertension, and higher cognitive function.
